

I Am Not Your Dog!

It's the year 2001 and the descendants of African kings and queens are now openly referring to themselves as "dogs." That is as four-legged, butt-sniffing, crotch-licking lower animals. And that's what a dog is. Always has been, always will be. You hear it daily now, brothers greet each other with, "What's up dog?" while openly referring to our sisters as bit**es, which are nothing more than female dogs. The crazy thing is that somehow, with the twisted mentality that now permeates our community, we see these words as terms of endearment.

How have we allowed ourselves to slip into this abyss of ignorance? I mean really brothers and sisters, are we that damn stupid that in the 21st century the once mighty African, Moor, Nubian, Kemetian (Egyptian), and the descendants of the biblical Israelites, are now mimicking the actions of man's so-called best friend; the dog? Is someone playing a cruel hoax on us? Why, of all the animals on the planet, did some of our brothers choose the "dog" to be their hero? I'll show you.

Let's look at the characteristics of a dog. First, dogs show no allegiance, except to the person that feeds them. Next, domestic dogs usually have a home chosen for them, and they are taken care of by a handler/master. Some are even taken to obedience school (higher "education") to make sure they know how to act in all situations. Yet, they can do nothing on their own. They have to be led around on a leash, and told when to sit, where to stand, lay down, when to bark, etc. And when it comes to sex, dogs show no allegiance to who they breed with. Male dogs in the neighborhood go fence to fence with different female dogs and never hang around to assist in raising the offspring. This is a fact.

So what are the goals of dogs? To sit around all day on a chain in a fence waiting to be fed. On the weekend, they go out and see how many female dogs they can have sex with. And that's pretty much it. Can you tell by now where I'm going with this? You see how easy it is for the enemy to slip in and deceive. Are we not calling ourselves dogs today? Do we not refer to our women as bit**es? Why do we do this? Listen, if you are going to act like an animal, at least find one with some dignity, pride, and integrity like a lion. Check out the lion and compare that with a dog. Lions live in prides (communities). And male lions accept eagerly the responsibility of protecting their community, women and children. No one has to make them do it; they do it on their own. Male lions are also very serious when it comes to survival. If their pride is threatened, they back down from no one. They raise their offspring without being told or forced to do so by the courts. Jesus was called the LION of Judah. It's in your bible if you care to look.

So where are the LIONS in the community today? I'm talking about Black men willing to take a stand. It is past time for the Black men to get serious and take control of their lives. It is a shame that our enemy's court system would have to track down our young men to make them take care of the seeds they planted. You make all of us look bad brother by not taking care of your responsibility. You lucky we let you stay on the planet because we only need strong Black men to marry strong Black women to produce and raise STRONG BLACK CHILDREN. This is how you build a Nation. This is how you build a civilization. And this we can never do while referring to ourselves as dogs and bit**es. It's time to tell it like it is. We must not stop calling ourselves dogs, and we must stop calling our women bit**es. So no! I am not – nor will I ever be – your dog!
